

WEATHER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Director
Janesville Daily Gazette, Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The sun is a variable star, its light and heat which it gives off vary in amount not only from year to year but from day to day.

This fact has been established by observations made at the station which the Smithsonian Institution maintains for the purpose at Calama, Chile. Dr. C. G. Abbot, the well-known astro-physicist, who has just returned from a trip to Calama and the Smithsonian, believes that most important scientific and practical results will follow from the study of the study of solar radiation which is being done at Calama.

Although the observatory was only established in July, 1918, remarkable has already been made of its observations by the weather department of the Argentine. The head forecaster of this department is an American, H. H. Clayton, who formerly was connected with the Blue Hill observatory in Massachusetts, and was a pioneer in the study of atmosphere by the means of balloons and kites.

Aids in Predicting Weather.
Mr. Clayton has been getting telegrams of reports of the observations made at Calama, and has been using them in forecasting the weather. Not only has he succeeded in forecasting weather changes with an accuracy which has seldom been attained before, but he claims that these fluctuations in solar radiation really control the weather, and that in order to predict it with perfect accuracy we have only to study the variations of sun heat.

This conclusion, when it is officially offered to the scientific world with Mr. Clayton's evidence in support of it, promises to give something of a new and very important nation in the world maintains an elaborate scientific organization, like our weather bureau, for the sole purpose of studying the changes in the weather. The business of the world waits upon these weather predictions. Ships do not sail when storm warnings are displayed. Farmers depend upon the weather bureau in harvesting their crops and in protecting them against frost and flood. Railroads time their shipments of perishables in accordance with what the weather bureau predicts. It is planning to spend the day outdoors look at the weather forecast the first thing in the morning.

As everyone has noticed, weather forecasts are frequently in error. About 20 percent of the time a rain storm arrives when it was not expected, or a frost appears when the forecasters said it would be warm.

Study Everything.
In making their forecasts, the meteorologists use every scrap of evidence available. They study the winds and the clouds and the amount of moisture in the air.

Mr. Clayton believes that the variation of sun gives off is the master key to the situation. Study solar radiation, he says, and you can predict the weather with an accuracy which is impossible by present methods.

Dr. Abbot examined all of Mr. Clayton's records and read a paper, which the latter has prepared, setting forth his dissent and his belief that the sun gives off is the master key to the situation. He said that he was at first skeptical about Mr. Clayton's claim, but says he is now convinced "there may be a great deal in it."

Mr. Clayton's method is all that he claims, its importance can hardly be exaggerated, for perfect foreknowledge of the weather would enormously increase man's control over nature.

At all events a true and thorough knowledge of solar variation is the first step. This Smithsonian is perfecting at its Calama station the studies of solar radiation upon which Clayton's method is based. During his stay there Dr. Abbot introduced a new method of reducing the daily observation from about 15 hours to about three hours. The instrument used for this purpose is known as a pyranometer.

Difficult to Measure Heat.
The problem of securing the sun's heat is a difficult one. It has engaged scientists for a long time. Of course, the very existence of life on the surface of the earth depends upon the heat of the sun. So far there is no reliable evidence that the sun's heat has diminished within historic times, but the Calama observations

Washington, Aug. 13.—At a stormy session today, the senate foreign relations committee agreed to expedite consideration of the peace treaty. Re-reading of disputed sections and consideration of possible amendments will begin tomorrow.

Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, ranking democrat of the committee, was understood to have told the committee that unless there was early committee action an attempt might be made to force a vote on the treaty in the senate.

Fall Opposes Haste
Chairman Lodge and others were understood to have expressed assent to the proposal to hasten the committee's consideration, but Senator Fall, Republican, New Mexico, was said to have taken the position that any precipitate action would be impossible.

During the debate, which was a lengthy session, it was reported that members had a bitter argument. Senator Hitchcock and others had questioned the motives of the committee's course. Senator Hitchcock was said to have replied with equal vigor.

Hitchcock Asks Action
It was said Senator Hitchcock told the committee there was an increasing demand in the senate and throughout the country that the treaty be disposed of, and that he expressed the belief that virtually every senator ready to make up his mind how he would vote.

CONGRESS CAN DEFINE
INTOXICATING LIQUOR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 13.—To secure uniform and efficient administration and enforcement of the prohibition law, congress clearly has the right to define what is intoxicating liquor, the senate judiciary sub-committee held in a formal report today.

In support of its contention the sub-committee appended an elaborate brief, understood to have been prepared by counsel for the anti-saloon league of America, citing many court decisions and precedents.

Only a few explanations for the changes in the house bill were contained in the report. In some cases the report said the house provisions were regarded as unnecessarily "burdensome."

No reason was cited for adding the provision to permit home manufacture and use of light wines and cider.

THEATRICAL STRIKE TAXES MANAGERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Aug. 13.—Chicago theatrical managers exerted every effort today to prevent a spread of the actors' strike which last night closed the Grand Theatre and Combs' Grand opera house.

They conferred with members of their companies and renewed their pleas of loyalty, supplemented by threats of damage suits against actors who refuse to fulfill their engagements.

While the managers were active Francis Wilson, president of the Equity association of actors and actors, who had the strike last night, conferred with local members of the organization and threatened to close every theatre in the city.

Eyes Focus on Royal Guest

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 13.—The shores of Quiddidi lake, two miles from this city, where a few weeks ago crowds assembled to watch the start of the first successful trans-Atlantic airplane flight, were again thronged with enthusiastic Newfoundlanders today when the Prince of Wales went to the lake for the annual regatta.

The crowds were in waiting long before the royal guest was due and when he reached the lake every point of vantage was occupied. As he came into view, a wave of cheering swept along the line, gathering force until thousands were yelling themselves hoarse.

After a program of events which kept him up until long after midnight yesterday, the prince slept at Government House in the room occupied in 1899 by his grandfather, the late King Edward VII, when as Prince of Wales he visited Newfoundland. Early this morning the prince went aboard the British cruiser Dragon for breakfast and at 10 o'clock made his second official landing in this city. A crowd greeted him, repeating the enthusiastic welcome of yesterday.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 13.—Fire wardens fought for scores of hours yesterday against forest and bush fires in this section of upper Michigan. Brisk winds this morning added to the seriousness of the situation in the lumber districts, but most villages in Chippewa county are believed safe as all underbrush in their immediate vicinity has been consumed by previous fires and wide burnings have been ploughed around each settlement.

Railroads in this section are keeping their right of way wet by using tank cars as sprinkler. Lifting of the smoke cloud has permitted resumption of navigation.

STRIKE HERE DENIED;
SHOPMEN IN MEETING

DO IT NOW
Build that house. If you can afford to build only one house, build it. Don't stop with one if you can build more. It will be the best investment you can make. The General Motors corporation has assured Janesville that it will continue to rapidly increase its real estate valuation in that the entire site purchased for factory construction will be covered with factory buildings which will employ at least 15,000 men.

The ultimatum is presented. Lethargic Janesville sits back and bats a sleepy eye. The 15,000 employees with their families will be upon the city and the city will be found lacking if action is not started and that at once.

Blocks of homes, double houses or flat buildings where one wall can serve for two, large apartment buildings with frontings on two or more streets with center court, are among the building possibilities best suited to meet the situation. There is no question of the homes, once completed, being rented.

The demand is present. The supply is lacking. Men without homes are not the men who will make a better Janesville. Life in barracks, tents, or the like, tend to degenerate. The family home is the city's moral need.

Build. Do it now.

EGG MONOPOLY, COLD STORAGE, ARE SCORED IN H. C. L.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Aug. 13.—Federal regulation of cold storage of food was urged in the senate today by Senator McKellar, democrat, of Tennessee, as a certain means of reducing the cost of living and as the only remedy for the most outrageous piece of profiteering that can be imagined.

The meat packers were charged by the Tennessee senator with using cold storage facilities to fix food prices. "Some middlemen," said Mr. McKellar, "is making 65-75 percent profit on eggs alone. The only possible way in which these prices can be kept down is through the use of cold storage. Put a limit on the time in which these goods can be held and the packers will be compelled to sell."

"Eggs, particularly," the senator asserted, "are monopolized. They are in the hands of the most giant monopoly there is in the world," he said. "The price the packers pay and the prices which they are sold is out of all proportion and they never will come down until eggs are stamped and regulated."

Vivian Martin, that vivacious little Paramount-Artcraft movie star was in this city Sunday afternoon.

Think of a real star in our town and nobody knowing about it, not to say getting a peek at her. Miss Martin, whose real name is Vivian Curtis, with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curtis, and Warner-Gladstein (wonder if he was a suitor!) were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hermann, Monroe.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hermann had a party for Miss Martin. Eight couples had the pleasure of meeting the little star, face to face—some of them even danced with her.

On Sunday afternoon the party moved to this city. Miss Martin is on her way east to make pictures but will remain at her home in Ridge Park, Ill., for a few weeks. In a short time she will again be the guest of Mrs. Hermann and again they may come to this city.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Aug. 13.—Appropriations aggregating nearly $1,000,000 with which to help carry out the president's suggestions for reducing the cost of living were asked of congress today by the commerce and labor departments.

While the senate debated the high cost of living today, congressional committees gave further consideration to measures designed to curb profiteering and hoarding.

Amendments extending the food control act to most necessities of life and imposing severe penalties upon those guilty of gouging the public were taken up by the house agriculture committee, while the senate interstate commerce sub-committee organized and decided upon procedure in handling measures for the regulation of corporations doing an interstate business in necessities.

H. C. L. Funds Asked.
Additional funds for the fight being waged against high costs by the executive departments were asked of congress, the requests coming from the commerce department and the department of labor.

Amendments extending the anti-profiteering sections of the food control act to wearing apparel, tools, utensils, implements and containers of foods, feeds and fertilizers, and imposing penalties for violating the act, were sent to the house agriculture committee today by Attorney General Palmer.

The amendments were in line with suggestions made by President Wilson in his address to congress last week and they provide a fine not exceeding $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than two years for those convicted of violating the act.

New Price Scale Given Out.
To meet reductions recently made by retailers, a new scale of prices for surplus foodstuffs was put into effect today by the war department. Roast beef was reduced from $2.13 to $1.90 per six pound can; bacon from 25 cents to 21 cents per pound; and No. 3 pound cans of beans from 17 to 9 cents. Prices on other items were reduced in proportion.

"The sacrifice of war," said the announcement, "has approved the policy of revising war department quotations from time to time to keep these prices below those charged by retailers for similar commodities."

CARNEGIE'S RELIGION
PUZZLES RELATIVES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lenox, Aug. 13.—Doubt as to the particular denominational belief of Andrew Carnegie is believed to be one of the reasons for the delay in deciding definitely upon the funeral services to be held at Shadowbrook tomorrow morning.

While Mr. Carnegie contributed liberally to various denominations, he apparently was not a member of any church society.

It was thought likely today that the service would be an adaptation of the Presbyterian and Catholic rites. Mrs. Carnegie is said to be much improved after the slight collapse which followed the death of her husband, Monday.

VEGETABLE VENDER
BUY SHOES CHEAP;
THEN WALKS OUT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Tuesday, Aug. 12.—The disturbances at the central markets today, which resulted in the closing of most of the stalls, caused much congestion at freight stations in Paris, where foodstuffs are received. In many cases it was impossible to deliver consignments and retailers and trucks and wagons returned to the stations fully loaded. The food ministry tonight ordered that the goods gathered at the stations shall be sold at once at the minimum price, which are operated by the government.

The day abounded in striking incidents. One vegetable vender was forced by the crowds to reduce the price of his cabbage one-half. He went into shoe store later and bought a pair of shoes. The vendor put on the shoes and handed the shoe dealer one-half the regular price, saying he was "only doing as he had been done by." He then walked out.

Rules Hungary

Archduke Joseph.

Archduke Joseph of the House of Hapsburg has been recognized by the allies as the new master of Hungary. He has assumed power with the title of governor of the state and announced his intention to organize a coalition cabinet.

Archduke Joseph was a commander of Austro-Hungarian forces on the southern section of the eastern battle front during the first two years of the great war. In 1918, he was asked by Charles of Austria to take charge of the situation and lead a solution for the political crisis before the country.

With his son, Archduke Joseph Francis, he took the oath to submit unconditionally to the orders of the Hungarian national council, and later took the oath of fealty to the new government.

Last April it was reported he had been executed by the communists at Budapest, but this report was promptly denied. Archduke Joseph was born at Alton on August 9, 1872.

The archduke frequently has been referred to as the most popular member of the Hapsburg family. He did much work among the poor and unfortunate, particularly in Budapest.

Voice of the People

To the Editor:

If the people of Janesville could sense the troubles and problems of the industrial centers have to undergo and solve when "growing over night," they would wipe their sleepy eyes and exert a little more effort towards meeting the coming growth here, thereby avoiding complications later.

Janesville faces a housing problem that is vital in itself. Housing is one of the paramount propositions for a growing city to consider, and unless there is renewed vigor injected into this movement at once it is highly probable and very likely that the demand for homes will continue and industry will become impatient.

New industrial enterprises have honored our city by desiring to locate here. They have expended huge sums of money for materials and production of affairs at the new plants. What is the problem left for the city to do? Reciprocity. Can we not afford to strain ourselves? Will Janesville grow where Janesville is located, or must we fall behind and permit homes to be constructed at the expense of our new industries south of the city where a new community is certain to spring up and rob the heart of Janesville of its commercial and social life?

Why not call a meeting of citizens and discuss the situation pro and con? Other cities have done it and good results were obtained. The purpose of the meetings has been to canvass the men of the city to ascertain how many houses could be built by private capital. Janesville should have enough men possessed with enough civic pride and enough private capital to build 500 homes in six months.

This proposition should be independent of all agencies now building structures in the city. That is, a building and loan association is not needed in a plan of this kind. Simply get pledges by men that they will purchase lots, build homes, and either sell or rent to those anxious to secure places to live in. And then, NOT AT A HUGE PROFIT. Just as we had to win the war, so must we win in the race of city for Janesville is NOT the only city in the state or country striving for industrial leadership at the present time. Every wide-awake citizen will honor and whether Janesville remains in the race depends entirely upon its own citizens and their efforts in the next six months. INDEPENDENT.

WHY SHE COULDN'T MAKE HER CHILD MIND.

"I do wish I knew," I heard a woman sigh fretfully, the other day after a bout with her five year old daughter over a matter of discipline in which I am sure no referee would have declared the mother the victor, "why I can't make that child mind."

One often expresses wishes one would be surprised and far from pleased to have fulfilled.

I suspect that was one, don't you? Because she couldn't make herself mind.

Surely, if anyone had said to her "There are many reasons why you can't make that child mind. One is that you didn't start early enough, and another is that before you can discipline others you should be able to discipline yourself," she would have been a few the truth.

There are few subjects that need more study than child discipline, and yet get so little. Animal trainers study and work at their vocations for years; but mothers, ignorant or educated, intelligent or stupid, are supposed to understand child-training by them. Perhaps one percent of them do.

This one had become angry when the child failed to mind and had begun to speak to it in a high-pitched, shrill voice. You should have seen the child stiffen to the challenge of that voice.

If You Can Only Keep Anger Out of the Voice:
"The voice," says a writer on psychology in daily life, "especially with the child, is the key to the anger, fear and despondency. In anger, the voice is harsh and shrill."

RENT PROTECTORING.

A sound sense argument which will hit rock bottom in the housing proposition if pursued to its goal is the fact move which came to a head at the meeting of real estate agents, Chamber of Commerce and Housing Corporation officials Monday evening.
The rent protector has been on the alert.
Money has talked in sonorous
tones in the house and room dealings in this city the past months. The influx of strangers has pushed the demand way over the supply. The man or woman who had the place took the rent. From time to time instances of economical working woman who couldn't afford to pay more than around $3 a week for her room was simply ousted. Along had come the newcomer with a larger pocketbook.
One woman worker had her room
rent raised from $3 to $5 the other day.
This is only one instance of many that have taken place. All the time room that rents for $3 last February now demands $5 and gets it. A good price of last year is a mere pittance in the landlord's viewpoint today.
Strangers have come in who were able to pay. They, unthoughtful of the others who have to count the nickels, met the price asked. There was only one result. Many a roomer today is forced to pay far beyond the means just for a place in which to live. And on top of that he has to eat.
It has been pointed out that real estate owners are closely approaching the danger mark in prices asked for real estate, which is making it impossible to build houses within the reach of the average working man.
Real estate agents pledged their cooperation in aiding to bring down the rent scale.

The rent goes up. Then the value of the property must go up. As soon as the assessors come around the assessment will go up and more taxes
to pay may put a damper on the owner's zeal for the high rents.

ANTI-BOLSHEVISM.

Just as every citizen was called on during the German menace to aid the authorities to rid the country of traitors and pro-German sympathizers, so today every resident and visitor in the United States is besought to aid in fighting the after-war peril of Bolshevism.

There is in every decent man a sense of loyalty to his God, his country and his home. He cannot better exemplify it than by joining forces with his government in exposing and ensuring punishment for the cruel, cowardly miscreants who blaspheme
the name of their Maker, plot to wreck the Constitution of the country,
and, hidden by darkness, seek to destroy by bombs innocent men, women and children in their homes.

J. Hartley Manners, noted playwright, appeals as follows to the citizens to wake up and be on guard:

"Awake! Oh, ye citizens who love honor, decency and justice, awake to the peril at your very doors. Do not rest until it is crushed. Watch ceaselessly and report to the nearest authorities every suspicious act that comes under your notice. Attend, wherever possible, the meetings of these revolutionists. If you are prevented from being present, report the fact that such meetings are to take place. Organize in every community a 'Committee of Watchers'. Employ men and women who are familiar with the languages of the alien spies to go among them and learn their plans and have the leaders arrested and placed where they can do no further harm. When the inciters to anarchy are interned and the more dangerous of them deported, organize a system of education among the ignorant followers who have been taught that the betterment of their condition can be secured only by the destruction of all laws, human and divine."

MALARIA PREVENTIONS.

An epidemic of malaria in this vicinity is reported by physicians. Preventive measures should be followed
at once before the fever gets too strong a hold. Malaria is a disease produced from noxious exhalations
from marshy lands or by the bite of malaria-infected mosquitoes.

Stagnant pools are the strong forts
of these mosquitoes. Their numbers are multiplying. Health officials assert: "An oil treatment for stagnant water is easy to apply and would rid the pool of the stagnation if the pool itself can not be done away with. Health officials urge the co-operation of the public in the downing of this disease."

Janesville business people, particularly of the Main and Milwaukee street section of the city, heaved a sigh of relief when Postmaster General A. S. Burleson reconsidered his order and sent permission for the reopening of the postal sub-station at the People's Drug store. Visions of plowing through the heat and cold way up to the postoffice vanished, and smiles of victory were apparent. The Chamber of Commerce led an active and quick fight against the closing of the office.

Winter is coming, but cheer up, the United States has two million army blankets to keep you warm. Along with the H. C. T. fight and the government's food sales, these blankets, varying in quality and price,
are to be offered for sale at low prices
through federal agencies.

Every little town has its little leaks,
seems to be the popular version of the post-July days. New York is said to abound in its cases where the proper pass-word, wink, or something usual

of that kind goes a long way towards wetting a parched throat.

Bicycle lifters may be riding today
but they better watch their step. The police are on their trail. Reports of thefts of bicycles have been numerous,
the police chiefs assure us, and bring down his fist on "it must stop."

State Comment

"The strike situation is far from settled. In fact the outlook is far from satisfactory. In the meantime the public suffers and the public must adjust itself to the unfortunate conditions as best it may. The freight service has already been seriously impaired, and industry will be crippled
and food supplies will be limited.
Fortunately the public has recently been educated up to the possibilities of economy in the uses of food and supplies of all sorts. The war did that. Good judgment now points to the wisdom of observing the most rigid economies along all lines till the situation clears."—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

"More important than the action of the authorities in quelling race riots
is the attitude of the individual in preventing them. Keep a steady head. 'Keep your shirt on.' The country is unquestionably confronted with a dangerous situation. Of course where rioting does break out, the rioters of whatever race or color
should be handled with impartial severity, because the man who takes part in mob activity is a menace to public safety, whichever side he is on."—Appleton Crescent.

"The only logical argument we have heard against government operation of the wires is Burleson. When the smash comes the profiteers will reflect concerning the chap who killed
the goose who laid the golden eggs."
—Madison State Journal.

"Many cities are finding themselves
in a peculiar situation as a result of the prohibition act. Liquor men can no longer be prosecuted by local authorities for selling liquor as the offense is a federal one and cities cannot issue liquor permits even if they want, as by so doing they would violate the law. Naturally the bootleggers and blind pigs are reaping a harvest, according to reports from different states."—Fond du Lac Reporter.

"Now comes a so-called publicity
man with the bald announcement that in return for a full page advertisement he will give the newspaper that accepts his offer a block of stock in a company now under organization in another state. We wonder how many unsuspecting publishers will fall for the stunt. Certainly if advertising is worth anything, and everybody knows that it is, it is worth paying for in cash. When publishers generally insist upon value received, the fake news items will cease."—Fond du Lac Reporter.

"Some people carry canes on account of the weakness of their legs,
and some on account of the weakness
of their minds."—Manitowoc Herald-News.

"Wilson recommends the breaking of the packing trust as the first step in reducing the high cost of living.
Isn't that a rather roundabout way to go about the thing?"—Kenosha Herald.

"The Racine Times-Call mentioned that liquor prohibition progressed
only slightly when the chief argument was that prohibition was a sin, but the prohibition movement came in tremendous tide as soon as it was shown that booze interferes with industry
and business."—Superior Telegram.

"Wisconsin is forging steadily along
all agricultural lines, and more especially as the state where well-bred cattle, sheep and swine are being raised. Scarcely a day passes without some man from another state coming to Wisconsin in search of pure bred stock."—Wausau Record-Herald.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE COMPLETE WORLD.
We are here to make merry, to learn how to smile.
To suffer some trials and labor
awhile;
And the Lord in His goodness has fashioned this earth.
So that we may enjoy it and fill it
with mirth.

He has given us the blossoms to brighten our way.
The streams and the lakes for our seasons of play.
The song birds to sing us their merri-
est lines,
And gladdened our hearts with the joys of his Junes.

We are here for a time to develop our souls
To battle with dangers and struggle
for goals.
There are hardships to test us and joys
to be won.
But the evenings are sweet when the tolling is done.

We have glorious friends all our sorrows to share,
And blue skies above when our mornings are fair.
The Lord has provided an infinite store
Of pleasures for man when his toiling is o'er.

Who will may go fishing, who chooses
to dream
May find a soft couch on the bank of a stream.
Whatever the fancy that fills us with cheer
The seeker for pleasure may find it down here.

It's a glorious world that we have at
our feet,
With all that man hinders to own it's complete.
There is nothing forgotten. Whatever
our choice,
We all may find reason to smile and rejoice.

Dies in West.
Milwaukee—Mrs. Louise Nichols,
formerly of Milwaukee, widow of Dr.

Q. What is the New Orleans claim
of the origin of the term "Dixieland"?
S. R.
A. Before the civil war the old Citizens' bank of New Orleans, having the power to issue paper money,
provided quantities of bills, mostly of $10 denomination, having the French word "Dix" on their backs. The monetary policy, according to this theory, was referred to as the land of the "Dixies." Eventually the term was broadened to include all of the southern states.

Q. What emblem is allowed on the tombs of the soldiers who are buried in Arlington National cemetery? J. I. N.
A. If a regular military tombstone is provided by the government there must be only the name in full, the unit in which the soldier served, and such military information. However, the Star Spangled Banner, our national emblem, is provided by the soldiers' families and are as ornate as they desire. There are no restrictions as to what emblems can be placed on these private tombstones.

Q. Did examinations of men for military service show what parts of the country were healthiest? I. M. C.
A. Rejections of men because of physical unfitness were fewer in that strip from Texas to Canada than elsewhere. The next lower rate of rejections was in the strip east of the Mississippi and in the Gulf states. The percentage of rejections were greatest in New England, New York, Michigan, Colorado, Arizona, California, and Washington. In the first of these
the cause is said to be the presence of great numbers of immigrants and industrial concentrations, while in the western states it is due to the presence of large numbers of health seekers.

Q. Is the mock orange ever edible? L. H. D.
A. The mock orange is of Japanese origin and is used only as an ornamental plant. It is of the same general family as the orange and lemon
but is harder and will grow much further north. The department of agriculture has taken advantage of this fact and has crossed the mock orange and the ordinary orange and has thus developed a new citrus fruit that may be grown as far north as the Ohio river. The fruit is called the cit-range.

Q. How can one figure the amount of corn in a crib? H. C. W.
A. Measure the length of the crib
in inches, multiply this by the width
in inches, then multiply this figure by the depth of corn in inches. This gives the cubic contents of the crib in inches. Divide this figure by inches in a bushel. The result will be the number of bushels. Roughly two

WHO'S WHO
in the Day's News

EARL OF LYTTON.
The Earl of Lytton, according to dispatches from London, is most often mentioned as ambassador to the United States, to succeed Lord Reading.
Earl Lytton, according to one correspondent, is "almost certain to be named." His full name is Victor, Alexander, George Robert, Bulwer-Lytton but he is of the new generation and insists on the elimination of the hyphen. He is forty-two years old, a forceful speaker,
an athlete, and a non-partisan
in politics.

The Countess of Lytton, who was Lady Pamela Plowden of Sassex before her marriage in 1902
at Windsor castle. She dances Grecian dances, writes verse and scorns
the dictates of conventional fashion.
At one opening of parliament, when the peeresses assembled, she appeared in a little cap of lace, breaking a tradition old custom by appearing without her tiara.

There are two sons and two daughters in the Lytton household. Viscount Knebworth, born in 1903; the Hon. Alexander Bulwer-Lytton, in 1910; Lady Margaret, in 1905, and Lady Katherine, in 1909.

Lord Lytton is a suffragist. On the rock of woman's rights he split with Winston Churchill. He is a deep student of economic conditions and lends
his name to a society for food reform. The Lytton home is Knebworth house in London.

THE WAR COLLEGE.
A mile below Washington Monument a narrow spit of land projects into the Potomac. The surge of water-borne commerce to the nation's capital passes it on one side,
while on the other is the way of the fighting ships of the nation bound for the navy yard a little further up on the eastern branch. Bisecting the spit a bare hundred yards from its tip
is Washington barracks, an army post.
The Army War college occupies this isolated point. It is an impressive, domed building of classic architecture,
solemn and altogether aloof. Before the war it was the Mecca of those proven men of the army who were allowed to receive the highest refinements of military instruction.
The individuals who proved themselves fittest in 10 or 20 years in the field, who were the selected men in the great test of experience, were here put over for the final jumps that led to the goal of crucial service.
But more than this, the war college was, and is, the repository of the military secrets of the nation. Here came those stories of military information, gathered the world around by secret agents, and correlated and digested against the day of emergency.
Here today is being massed the complete record of the great war, and here sit those experts who will write it into official history. Here comes the chief of staff for detailed information upon which is based the action of our giant nation in any time of emergency.

DULIN IN FAVOR OF EXTENDING CITY LIMITS MILE SOUTH

There is a strong possibility that more territory will be soon annexed by the city of Janesville, according to a statement issued by Alderman John J. Dulin, president of the city council. Mr. Dulin said he was in favor of extending the city limits one mile to the south. By thus extending the city limits several members of the city council believe that they will protect Janesville against the possibility of a new city being started in that vicinity. The extension would bring South Janesville within the boundaries of this city. Mr. Dulin in discussing the movement said that he had given the matter considerable thought during the past two weeks and he was convinced that it was the only logical thing to do. He told of the rapid growth of Fond du Lac, and how the city, unprepared to care for the growth, made it possible for a North Fond du Lac, which today is nearly as large as the older city. "I have not had time to discuss the movement with all the council members as yet," Mr. Dulin said. "I believe that many of them will agree with me." Mayor T. E. Welsh was asked regarding the movement and he stated he had nothing to say at the present time.

EDGERTON-JANESVILLE TRUCK LINE PLANNED

ORDERS CANINE SHOT AND HEAD SENT TO MADISON

That every effort possible is being made to rid the city of stray dogs was evidenced in the municipal court this morning by the large number of persons brought before Judge H. L. Maxwell to answer charges of keeping unlicensed canines. J. W. Hemming was the first offender and he frankly admitted owning a dog. He told the judge that he neglected getting a license but he secured one yesterday afternoon. Judge Maxwell fined him $5 and costs. John Watson was next and he denied all knowledge of owning a dog. He told the court that his daughter brought one home from Rockford a few days ago and he only got a glimpse of it. Kressin, 261 South High street, told Judge Maxwell that the Watson dog bit his daughter through the times. Judge Maxwell acting Chief of Police Morrissey to send the head to Madison for examination. Charles Homan was next and he couldn't be convinced that he owned a dog. He insisted that the dog owned by him was sick and didn't need a license. City attorney Roger Cunningham accepted his plea of not guilty and in a few minutes Homan returned and entered a plea of guilty. Judge Maxwell fined him $5 and costs. He was given until tomorrow to pay the fine. Otto Manning was assessed seven dollars and costs when he was found guilty of keeping an unlicensed dog. Manning appeared before Judge Maxwell shortly before noon today. He had before the judge and given a fine of five dollars and costs or seven days.

MAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO; DRIVER TAKEN TO POLICE STATION

Clayton Watmore, 202 South Franklin street, was seriously injured yesterday by a 2 o'clock auto. The driver of the auto, South Bluff and East Milwaukee streets. The injured man mounted on a bicycle was knocked to the ground and both left wheels of the car ran over his body. He was carried into the Gazette office where he was given first aid treatment, until the ambulance arrived. He was rushed to the hospital and it is reported that he is in a serious condition. Eye witnesses to the accident were unanimous in their declarations that Mr. Menanger was responsible for the accident. At the request of several men who witnessed the accident, Mr. Menanger was taken to the police station. Several men who witnessed the accident said that the injured man was riding a bicycle east on East Milwaukee street, when Mr. Menanger attempted to cut a. He drove his machine directly into the bicycle.

HOW DO YOU FIGHT H. C. L.

An inquiry into the high cost of living and means of living the problem has caused the Gazette to ask its readers to help in giving suggestions which will aid in meeting the conditions brought about by advanced prices. If any of the readers have found a way to beat Mr. H. C. L. they will benefit the public by giving an account of their experiences. Have you tried keeping an account of domestic expenditures and what was the result? Have you discovered more economical methods of buying for the household? Are you found satisfactory and cheaper substitutes for high-priced foods? Have you found new ways to make over old clothes? Have you found in your market, anything that would indicate food profiteering? Have you found new ways of adding to your income? Have you found that some things considered luxuries could be easily dispensed with? If you have solved these or any of the dozens of other questions involved in the struggle to make your income cover your expenditures, write out your experiences, giving facts and figures as briefly as possible and send them to the High Cost of Living Editor, The Janesville Gazette.

Devious Ways of Trimming Up Mr. H. C. L.

What are you going to do to keep down the high cost of living? That question is being asked freely about the city and the majority of the people shake their heads and admit they are up against the hard proposition. The business men of Janesville, however, it was found this morning, have many ways of beating Mr. H. C. L. One prominent business man said, "I have not been in a barber shop since the high cost of living started this morning, and a person would be surprised how much he can save if he would drop the 20 cents in a bank every day and shave himself." "Now don't quote me," another downtown merchant said, "but the truth of the matter is that I haven't bought anything new in the line of clothes or shoes in two years. I keep on shape until the high prices collapse." The man said he kept his suits well pressed and cleaned and had his shoes mended by the shoemaker. He figures that he has at least an even chance with Mr. H. C. L. While the man was discussing his tricks to beat the high costs a local young housewife stepped up and became interested in the conversation. She also demanded that her name be withheld, as her husband might not like it. Housewives would be surprised at the money they can save on their gas bills by having an oven which they can use over one burner, the young wife said. She told her husband to try the high cost of living by buying for cash in the stores and coming down town each morning. The Gazette is anxious to learn of the many methods being employed to beat the high costs which are now prevailing. If you have a way in which you are trimming Mr. H. C. L. or holding your own with him, write to the High Cost of Living editor, Janesville Gazette.

YOUNG BOY TELLS STORY OF ATTACK BY ALLEGED MORON

Court hanger-ons were given a severe jolt this morning when District Attorney Stanley Duxwilde requested Judge H. L. Maxwell to order the court room cleared before the preliminary examination of John Fay, charged with taking indecent liberties with a minor child, was started. Judge Maxwell granted the request when the district attorney said that he wished the room cleared owing to the nature of the evidence. The young boy of 13 years, was called to the stand, and despite the tears, which were flowing from his eyes, told in a straightforward manner just what happened when he was in the Court House park with Fay, Sunday night. The young boy, hardly old enough to distinguish right from wrong, told Judge Maxwell of the actions of Fay. He never hesitated throughout his story, and when he finished, Judge Maxwell said that the evidence was sufficient to warrant the holding of Fay. Fay, with a mustache, which failed to conceal his pointed chin, sat sullenly in a chair glaring at the young boy. Before going into court the lad admitted he was afraid of Fay and kept asking if the man was to be in court. Not a word was spoken by Fay during the session, and after Judge Maxwell had heard Fay for Aug. 20 at 10 o'clock and held the man under 1,000 bail the prisoner simply glared at the boy again and left the court room with the officer.

TESTIMONY TAKEN IN CIVIL ACTION

The taking of testimony in the civil action of G. Preller against Miss Lily Chapin was finally completed yesterday afternoon after several hours were spent by the two attorneys. Edward F. Ryan and M. J. Richard, in arguments which greatly amused the small crowd. Judge H. L. Maxwell held the case open until Friday morning at 10 o'clock at which time arguments will be presented. During the afternoon Miss Chapin was called to the witness stand and frankly admitted that she had kept a close tab on the work and hours of Mr. Preller. She said she was always on hand when he arrived in the morning and was also around to witness his departure in the afternoon.

STAKES HIS CHANCES OF CATCHING RATTLER TO DETROIT ON AUTO

People have read many times of hurried trips to Chicago from Janesville via the air and the railroads, but as far as can be learned no one ever attempted to reach the Big Town via automobile in three hours until F. W. Hohensee started out last night. Mr. Hohensee received word shortly before eight o'clock last night asking him to hurry to Detroit. He first glanced at a Michigan Central timetable and found that a train was scheduled to leave Chicago for Detroit at 11:20 p. m. He then looked at the time he could get a train to Chicago, and was informed that there were no trains until early this morning. It was then that he decided to make the trip via automobile. With just three hours in which to travel the entire 91 miles he left the Myers hotel at 8:20 with Deil Howard driving. Several bystanders in the hotel became interested and several wagers were made regarding the chances of Mr. Hohensee making his connection. Up to a late hour this afternoon word has been received from him and it is not known whether he made the train or not.

Eat plenty of ice cream. It's a healthy habit to have.

Do You Know?

Many people realize that the Trust Company can render a great service in settling up estates and in handling property in many ways—

but they think it is only for the rich man and that the man with only a few thousand dollars cannot enjoy this good service.

But this is wrong. You should know that this service is for all the people alike and that it is not at all expensive.

Even the man who expects to leave very little besides his life insurance money will find the Trust Company a very helpful agent in carrying out his plans when he is gone.

It is so easy to invite serious losses when you adopt poor business plans. Why not arrange with this bank to take care of this important work for you when the time comes?

THE ROMANCE OF BUSINESS

TRUE STORIES OF SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

EDITH MORIARTY

When Ned Wilson hired his sister Lois to help him with his forestry work during the summer, she would do better than he at it. When Lois finished high school she wanted to go to college and then take up teaching. Her mother, who was a widow, had no money to spend on more education and so Lois decided to earn the money herself. Her brother, who had taken up forestry, said he would pay her to keep his books and help him with his business.

Lois spent her summer learning how to keep books and make out checks for her brother's growing business. In September she had enough money to pay for her first year in college. During her vacation times at Thanksgiving, Christmas and other holidays she straightened up her brother's books for him and thus earned a little extra money. She kept this up for three years and during that time her interest in the work had grown to such an extent that she began studying up about trees, their uses and ways and means of preserving them and many other things pertaining to forestry. Despite this intense interest in her work, she never gave up her idea of being a teacher and so it was rather a bitter disappointment when the war came and her brother's business fell off so that she could not earn enough money to finish her college course.

Lois did not care just as she had done for her brother. She knew nothing about it when she started, but it was not long before she had straightened up all their records, started a new and efficient method of keeping the affairs of the department, and introduced some of the modern tests and examinations which help determine the fitness of the applicant for a job. Within a year she had the head of the department and was the highest paid woman in the concern. She was earning $125 a month and although her employers and her fellow workers thought she was getting unusually good money, she herself was not satisfied. She had earned almost that amount when she worked for her brother in the summer time and she had found that work much more pleasant and interesting and the hours much better. She had continued to keep her brother's books and help him with his business whenever she had time, and finally when he had to go to war she decided to leave the factory and devote all of her time to keeping his business running until he came back. The head of the factory tried to persuade her to remain, but she even offered him $150 a month and promised him $175 at the end of another six months. Finally she decided to stay on at the factory at least until they found some one else to take her place. Six months and then eight months and the firm made no effort to fill her place and so she decided to leave. They had promised, and so she left.

The factory sent for her and offered her the money and all of the back pay for the time she had been away. She took up her brother's work in earnest and soon found that it was far more interesting and remunerative than her factory work and was not to be compared to the insignificant pay which she had received as a teacher.

WATTS BROTHERS
AT-BUSINESS GETTING
Lois spent the fall and winter months getting new business and before long had come she had enough business to keep three groups of men at work where her brother had had only one working for him the spring before. She was the only woman in a city of over 800,000 people who was engaged in such work and her only competitor of any consequence was a man twice her age who thought because she was a woman he need not fear her. Lois Wilson, however, was wide awake and she now claims that about 25 percent of her new customers or clients are people who once went to her competitor and left him because of his carelessness. Lois acts as foreman of each of her three gangs of men, which means that she supervises the work of about 60 men, each of whom is surely 10 years older than she is.

She takes her men out in the morning to the estate or section where the sick trees are, shows them what is wrong and what should be done, and then leaves them to do it while she returns to hunt up new business and to take care of the office routine. Then she returns later in the day to inspect the work and see that it is progressing. Instead of running the business as if it were her own, she merely takes 10 percent commission on the new clients she gets and a straight salary for her work as a bookkeeper. The rest of the profits she puts away for her brother and she says she is paying him full salary until he returns from overseas. She is to be made a partner when he returns and she has worked out some new ideas which the firm of Wilson and Wilson will adopt. Some of her ideas are very advanced and she is the first person in her section of the country and the only one to have put the new ideas into practice. One idea which she will try soon is that of tree insurance, the idea being that if people will give her a contract to care for their trees she will insure the trees against fire, cavity and harm from insects and the like.

And so Lois Wilson, a young woman but 27 years old, has built up a business far greater than her brother ever dreamed of doing and that business is still in its infancy. Today she is earning between $200 and $275 a month, and this will be more than doubled when she becomes a partner in the business which she has made practically unaided.

"And you are Sheerluck Down, the oyster shell, smiled the great detective, interrupting him.
"Why, how did you know?"
"How did I know? Nothing easier: in the world, I knew you were an oyster shell, by the fact that you came to me for help to solve a riddle about pearls."
"Hey!" yelled the man, suspiciously. "Are you one of those con men who sell you a pearl for a fake?"
"No, I am not a con man," said the detective soothingly. "I knew your name, Mr. Brown, by the envelope addressed to you which fell from your hand as you came in. And about the pearls, a price-list of pearls was protruding from your pocket, see?"
"Oh, if that's it, I won't mess up this time on you. Yes, I've come to you about some pearls."
"It was this way, I'm a straight one, I am and when I make a little money it's all up and above board. One day I find the pearl in an oyster, and blow me if the whole town didn't know it the next day. Well, sir, if I got offers to sell that pearl, I got hundreds of 'em, so I think to myself, 'I'll sell here's my chance to get a net a little honest coin,' so I look up a pearl company, the Consolidated Pearl Planters, and I bought seven quart of their finest. I was the whole lot of 'em for a hundred and seventy-five dollars. Well, I had to hand back the money or get hung on a telegraph pole. I was undecided for a while but in the end I handed over the coin and now I want you to find them crooks that buncoed me and the public."

"I am sorry Mr. Down, but you want the United States Service. No one man could locate a smart little company like that. Ten dollars for my time in listening to your story, please."
"Thanks, good-day."

Well, to believe the suspense, we'll tell you. It's just a picture of the very same Dorothy, but she is appearing in a new picture. Dorothy has decided that she likes herself best as a brunette and so she has changed her hair. It is none other than the famous black wig which this young woman has adopted and wears to the exclusion of her blond curls. It is said she loves her wig with a pathetic devotion.

THE WISHING PLANE

WILLIS WINTER

Although Jack and Jane had enjoyed their flying trip to Scotland, they were tickled when Captain Brave announced the next morning that they were to leave that day for Switzerland. For the children had seen pictures of the little country with its wonderful ice-covered mountains and its pretty little valleys, and Jack, especially, had read lots of times about how Swiss boys and girls could come down the snow-covered mountain roads.

So in less time than it takes to tell it the little folks found themselves coming toward Switzerland. High as they were, the airplane, the mountain ahead of them seemed to fairly stick up into the sky. As Captain Brave let the plane drop, Jack and Jane could see the ice-covered peaks plainly. Then the captain climbed down between two of the mountains and the children over the side of the plane could see a wonderful little valley coming in to meet them. Such wonderful colors the children never had seen. The houses, quaint little affairs the children thought, made the picture prettier than ever. Jack and Jane had seen pictures of the little country with its wonderful ice-covered mountains and its pretty little valleys, and Jack, especially, had read lots of times about how Swiss boys and girls could come down the snow-covered mountain roads.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

BY EDITH MORIARTY

Miss Julia C. Lathrop, director of the federal bureau of children's relief work in Washington, has been asked by the Czech-Slovak government to visit Europe and give advice on child relief work. Announcement of the invitation was made through a cable sent by Herbert Hoover to Edgar J. Lathrop, director of the American relief administration.

The Czechs could scarcely have found a more competent woman to instruct them along the line of child welfare work. Miss Lathrop has been an active worker in various reform movements for over 25 years and she has made a special study of the better education of the child, juvenile court laws, infant mortality, and other things pertaining to child welfare. She has visited foreign countries at various times to study their methods of child welfare and when the congress created a children's bureau in the department of commerce and labor, Miss Lathrop, who was at that time a special worker in Chicago, was made head of it.

One of the first things to which she turned her attention was the subject of infant mortality. She put her pamphlets for distribution which told what may be done to save babies, what was being done at the time in that direction, and what were the causes of the high death rate among infants. She had been seen years since she started her work in Washington with the children's bureau and surely her experience gained during that time through close touch with child welfare work throughout the nation will be invaluable to those young and inexperienced governments seeking aid like the Czech-Slovak republic.

INCREASE IN NUMBER OF WOMEN DOCTORS
Unusually heavy registration of students for the fall term at the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania denotes the marked fact that the war has had in increasing the number of women doctors, according to Dr. Francis C. Van Gasken, professor of clinical medicine, who said recently in a speech before the registration of women in colleges which five years ago would have turned in horror from the thought of medical education, the applications for admission to the Women's Medical college have advanced this year by leaps and bounds. It is a most interesting development of war conditions which forced hitherto conservative institutions to accept women interns and residents.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am writing you because I feel sure after reading your column night after night that you will give me just the advice I need. My adopted parents have done a lot for me, given me all sorts of advantages and still I have made a mess of things.

I expect this letter will shock you. I learned the things I should have then told at home in other ways. This does not excuse me though for I was not ignorant at the time it happened. I met a high school girl where I was attending "prep" school and fell deeply in love or thought I did, but I know now it was only a boy's fancy. It was different with her. She must have loved me for I will never believe anything else. I'll have to tell it plainly. I do not know how to camouflage. I wronged her. I would gladly give my right hand to blot out those weeks, when I came home with the news of my infidelity. I felt so much better actually relieved at having to take the hard licking my father gave me.

That was a long three months ago. I am 19 now and feel older by three years at least. The girl had no relatives but an aunt, who was keeping her in school, and somehow my parents made arrangements to have her taken away. I cannot find out anything from them except that she is being well cared for. They silence me when I talk about it. I owe them everything and this has hurt them terribly. I know they feel they are making it easy for me, but I want to do the only thing left to do, marry and care for her myself. Unless they see things differently they will force me to go back to school. Why should I go free and she suffer for what I have done? Can it be possible money can cover up wrong?

doing like that? I will not believe she was bought willingly. I am not writing for sympathy. I know I deserve none. I have been despicable and yet I cannot understand my parents' act. Could you help me by telling my what I should do? I feel sure you will understand. I have had a big lesson and would be only too glad to leave school and buckle down to hard work for the chance of squaring up.

Yes, I understand, and you have my sympathy, too, for you seem sincere and honest. Boys are so liable to think lightly of a predicament like this, and I am glad to see you have manly inclinations.

I am afraid I cannot agree with your parents. The girl should not be left alone to bear her sorrow without the encouragement you can give her. You should marry her, and as quickly as possible.

Since you are not of age, you cannot act legally without the consent of your parents. Try to make them see the moral law which compels you to marry.

In case they refuse to let you do the honorable thing, go on to school and study with a view to making good so that as soon as you are old enough you can right, as far as possible, the wrong you have done.

Always keep fresh in your mind the thought of the girl's love for you, and be gentle and considerate of her. She evidently is not nearly so much to blame as you for the chances are she was very ignorant, and you were not.

Your parents think they are doing the wisest thing for you. Be conscious of them, but live in a quiet way, and let them see your moral obligation and their chance to make three lives happy—yours, the girl's and the baby's.

SPORT AND LOUNGE
FROCK FOR AUTUMN

By ELOISE

For the woman who chooses her fall sports costumes with as much care as she selects her summer ones there is an interesting array of smart suits and frocks in the shops. Attractive skirts of plaid woolen materials and English tweeds are shown for the woman who plays golf or likes to hike. Most of the plaid skirts are plaited while those of tweed are made on plain straight lines with a slit on the side or in the back to aid in walking. Suits of jersey and heavy mixtures are also popular for the fall outings.

When one chooses the fall frock careful attention is usually given to the style for something simple in design is always best for the frock which must be worn with a coat and it is seldom that one can motor or hike nowadays without a wrap of some kind. The smart little two-piece frock is not only simple and comfortable, but it is modish, cut, and makes a splendid costume for sports or lounge wear.

Long jersey fashions the skirt and the blouse is a combination of the green, brown and red tones which blend into perfect autumn leaf shades. Such a frock will be found useful for any hour of the day and will make a practical and pretty utility dress.

A CHANCE TO LIVE

BY ZOE BECKLEY

"TROUBLES NEVER COME SINGLY." Meanwhile Annie, upstairs, had got herself under control and was trying to think out what to do. Bernice's office must be notified. The family must be told. She must dress herself and the baby and hasten as soon as possible to the hospital and find out how Bernice was.

Annie decided first to telephone the chemical house where Bernice worked, and went round to the drug store taking Robbie with her. She found the phone in the book, called the number and asked for the manager.

This is Mrs. Bernard Carroll—the wife of your shipping clerk. Bernard is very ill—she tried to keep her voice steady—and has been taken to the hospital. Pneumonia, I think.

The man was kind. Bernard was a good shipping clerk, the most intelligent young man he'd had in a long while. He was making 40 to 50 percent on Bernice's wages. It would be impossible to replace him satisfactorily for $14.

"Why, that's too bad. I'm sorry to hear that," he said. "I'll send Carroll's pay to you today. This is Friday; we'll call it a week. Let me know how he gets along."

Annie thanked him and hung up. It was something to be sure of the $14, for she had less than a dollar in her purse and there was the doctor to be paid. Then she walked to her mother's. Mrs. Hargan had been very poorly of late. Annie hated to add to her burdens with the new child. While she was feeling her mother and thinking how best to begin, Mrs. Hargan said: "Well, Annie—seems like we're in for more bad luck. Your Aunt Margaret's lost her position at Simms'."

Annie could only gasp "No!" "Simms got a young girl for her place," went on Mrs. Hargan, her thin voice taking on a new hoarseness. "Said Margaret wasn't fast enough. Gave her two weeks' salary and fired her—just like that. Heaven knows what she'll do now. Seems a shame there's nobody wanted in this world who's really well in the forties. I wish I could be out of the way, too. I'm only a care."

Annie stopped her mouth with a kiss and turned comforter when she had said the words of bad news. The story of Bernice must wait. She would go to the hospital and tell the family about him later. Perhaps he would be better.

The hospital where Bernice lay, ill of pneumonia was one of those dreary, overworked, under-serviced institutions where the poor are taken. Wheeling the baby in his go-cart, Annie turned in through an asphalted courtyard. To the left was the main building, to the right several smaller ones connected by passageways and galleries. As she looked around for the proper entrance, a man's voice called behind her. "Hey—where you going? This way in."

She turned. The man was in the doorway of a sort of lodge beside the entrance and beckoned her to come back. She had gone through the drive that admitted ambulances. She left Robbie at the door of the small building and went inside. There was a long desk and grating, behind which clerks were writing in big books or on cards and slips, or telephoning, or curiously answering other anxious visitors like Annie.

Some of the callers were foreigners.

SOME MISAPPREHENSIONS.

A conspicuous skin rash or eruption, which has been present about the face for months is practically syphilis, although ignorant or unprincipled persons are prone to so regard it.

Something like one-third of all cases of syphilis are innocently acquired. Therefore it is unjust to consider syphilis as necessarily a venereal disease.

Social station or apparent health or apparent cleanliness or refinement is no bar to syphilis. This disease prevails as widely among the higher classes as among the lower. Between the appearance of infection and the appearance of the first sore (the so-called chancre), at the point of incubation, there is a quiescent incubation period of from one week to eight weeks, but averaging three weeks. This long incubation period (as compared with that of pneumonia or typhoid fever, for instance) means that the germs are active and system without exciting the vigorous resistance that pneumonia or typhoid germs excite, and consequently that the body will not so readily overcome and destroy the invading germs as it does in the case of pneumonia or typhoid fever.

The most hopeless syphilis to treat is the case of Mr. Wischmeier, who knows everything "they say" and has perhaps even dipped into technical medical books or consulted some self-constituted "specialist" of great notoriety. The most favorable outlook for recovery is in the case of a patient who doesn't know nearly as much as he thinks his doctor knows, and who follows the doctor's directions to the letter, ignoring all advice and counsel gratuitously offered by the Wischmeier family.

Only a charlatan would offer an alleged treatment for syphilis suitable for all cases indiscriminately. For, of course, there is no such treatment. It would be quite as reasonable to offer an alleged remedy for typhoid fever and dispense with the nuisance and expense of doctors and nurses in that disease.

The more recently acquired, the more contagious and the longer the disease has persisted the less the risk of infection in ordinary association with the patient. Syphilis of more than three years' duration is practically not infectious to persons associated with the patient.

PRESERVING BERRIES.

Canning Berries.—The following method of canning berries will be found not only easy but the berries will be as whole as when first picked. Wash cans and dip in boiling water, after which drain. Fill all cans with the fresh fruit, tapping on the bottom of can to shake them together, but do not crush them. Prepare a light or heavy syrup (one cup sugar to one cup water) and pour over berries, setting the cans in hot water while doing it; put on rubbers and tops and seal tight.

Have ready a big pail or lard can; put cloth in bottom to get cans on; then fill can with boiling water until it is over the lids, being careful not to pour on the glass but the side of the tin can.

Put on lid and cover with water to retain heat; leave until the next morning. The result will be more than pleasing, for the berries will be entirely whole.

Preserving Berries.—Berries combined with currants give a flavor unequalled by any other fruits for jelly. Few realize that almost twice as much jelly can be obtained by making three extractions from fruits. The process is:

Place equal amount berries and currants washed if necessary, in saucepan; add enough water to prevent burning. Cover, let come to boil, simmer until cooked through; strain through cheesecloth half an hour. Return pulp to kettle; cover with water; let boil and simmer 15 minutes; strain. Repeat third time. If made in an alcoholic test is made for pectin. The second and third extractions may be combined. Make jelly in usual way.

News for the Housewife
at Preserving Time

Here is a recipe for preserving syrup that will give you finer jams, jellies and preserves—and save you about one-half your trouble.

Instead of all sugar use only one-half sugar and one-half Karo (Red Label).

You will find this means clear, firm jelly; rich preserves with heavy syrup; and delicious jams, mellow and "fruity".

Karo is a fine, clear syrup, with a natural affinity for the juices of the fruit.

It blends the sugar with the fruit juice—brings out all the "fruity" flavor.

Furthermore, it prevents even the richest jam or jelly from "candying".

It does away with all the uncertainty of preserving, and just about cuts the work in half.

For cooking, Baking and Candy Making Karo (Red Label) is used in millions of homes. In all cooking and baking recipes use Karo instead of sugar. It is sweet, of delicate flavor, and brings out the natural flavor of the food.

"You say—You say that people believe—" George shuddered, then forced himself to continue, in a sick voice: "They believe my mother is—
is in love with that man?"
"Of course!"

"And because he comes here—and they see her with him driving—and all that—they think they were right when they said she was in—
in love with him before—before my father died?"

She looked at him gravely with her eyes now dry between their reddened lids. "Why, George," she said, gently, "don't you know that's what they say? You must know that everybody in town thinks they're going to be married very soon."

George uttered an incoherent cry; and sections of him appeared to writhe. He was upon the verge of actual nausea.

"You know it!" Fanny cried, getting up. "You don't think I'd have spoken of it to you unless I was sure you knew it?" Her voice was wholly genuine, as it had been throughout the wretched interview. "Somebody must have told you?"

"Who told you?" he said.

"What?"

"Who told you there was talk? Where is this talk? Where does it come from? Who does it?"

"Why, I suppose pretty much everybody," she said. "I know it must be pretty general."

"Who said so?"

"What?"

George stepped close to her. "You say people don't speak to a person of gossip about that person's family. Well, how did you hear it, then? How did you get hold of it? Answer me!"

"Why—Fanny hesitated."

"You answer me!"

"I hardly think it would be fair to give names."

"Look here," said George. "One of your most intimate friends is that mother of Charlie Johnson's, for instance. Has she ever mentioned this to you? You say everybody is talking. Is she one?"

"Oh, she may have intimated—"

"I'm asking you: Has she ever spoken of it to you?"

"She's a very kind, discreet woman, George; but she may have intimated—"

George had a sudden intuition, as there flickered into his mind the picture of a street-crossing and two absorbed ladies almost run down by a fast horse. "You and she have been talking about it today!" he cried. "You—"

Professor H. Strauss, M. D., of the Royal Charity Hospital, says, "The cause for an attack of gout, rheumatism, lumbago, is supplied by the increase of uric acid in the blood serum; the result of various causes, the most frequent of which is renal. Before an attack, one suffers sometimes from headache, neuralgia, twinges of pain here and there."

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when the back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; when you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach; or you have rheumatic pains or lumbago, gout, sciatica when the weather is bad, do not neglect the warning, but try simple means. Take six or eight glasses of water during the day, then obtain at your nearest drug store "An-uric."

This is the discovery of Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. "An-uric" is an antidote for this uric acid poisoning and dissolves uric acid in the body much as hot coffee dissolves sugar. "An-uric" will penetrate into the joints and muscles, and dissolve the poisonous accumulations. It will stamp out toxins. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. were talking about it with her not two hours ago. Do you deny it?"

"Do you deny it?"

"No!"

"All right," said George. "That's enough!"

She caught at his arm as he turned away. "What are you going to do, George?"

"I'll not talk about it now," he said, heavily. "I think you've done a good deal for one day, Aunt Fanny!"

And Fanny, seeing the passion in his face, began to be alarmed. "George, you know I'm sorry for you, whether you care or not," she whispered. "I never in the world would have spoken of it if I hadn't thought you knew all about it. I wouldn't have—"

But he had opened the door with his free hand. "Never mind!" he said, and she was obliged to pass out into the hall, the door closing quickly behind her.

CHAPTER XV.

George took off his dressing-gown and put on a collar and tie, his fingers shuddering so that the tie was not his usual success; then he picked up his coat and waistcoat, and left the room while still in process of donning them, fastening the buttons as he ran down the front stairs to the door. It was not until he reached the middle of the street that he realized that he had forgotten his hat; and he paused for an irresolute moment then he decided that he needed no hat for the sort of call he intended to make, and went forward hurriedly. Mrs. Johnson was at home, the Irish girl who came to the door informed him, and he was left to wait the lady, in a room like an elegant well—the Johnsons' "reception room."

Mrs. Johnson came in, breathing noticeably, and her round head, smoothly but economically decorated with the hair of an honest woman, seemed to be lingering far in the background of the Alpine bosom which took precedence of the rest of her everywhere; but when she was all in the room, it was to be seen that her breathing was the result of hospitable haste to greet the visitor, and her hand suggested that she had paused for only the briefest ablutions. George accepted this cold, damp lump mechanically.

"Mr. Amberson—I mean Mr. Minifer!" she exclaimed. "I'm really delighted; I understood you asked for me. Mr. Johnson's out of the city, but Charlie's downtown and I'm looking for him at any minute, now, and he'll be so pleased that you—"

"I didn't want to see Charlie," George said. "I want—"

"Do sit down," the hospitable lady

urged him, seating herself upon the sofa. "Do sit down."

"No, I thank you. I wish—"

"Surely you're not going to run away again, when you've just come? Do sit down, Mr. Minifer. I hope you're all well at your house and at the dear old Major's, too. He's looking—"

"Mrs. Johnson," George said, in a strained loud voice which arrested her attention immediately, so that she was abruptly silenced, leaving her surprised mouth open. "Mrs. Johnson, I have come to ask you a few questions which I would like you to answer, if you please."

She became grave at once. "Certainly, Mr. Minifer. Anything I can—"

He interrupted sternly, yet his voice shook in spite of its sternness. "You were talking with my Aunt Fanny about my mother this afternoon."

At this Mrs. Johnson uttered an involuntary gasp, but she recovered herself. "Then I'm sure our conversation was a very pleasant one, if we were talking of your mother, because—"

Again he interrupted. "My aunt has told me what the conversation virtually was, and I don't mean to waste any time, Mrs. Johnson. You were talking about a—"

George's shoulders suddenly heaved uncontrollably; but he vented fiercely on: "You were discussing a scandal that involved my mother's name."

"Mr. Minifer!"

"Isn't that the truth?"

"I don't feel called upon to answer, Mr. Minifer," she said with visible agitation. "I do not consider that you have any right—"

"My aunt told me you repeated this scandal to her."

"I don't think your aunt can have said that," Mrs. Johnson returned sharply. "I did not repeat a scandal of any kind to your aunt and I think you are mistaken in saying she told you I did. We may have discussed some matters that have been a topic of comment about town—"

"Yes!" George cried. "I think you may have! That's what I'm here about, and what I intend to—"

"Don't tell me what you intend, please," Mrs. Johnson interrupted crisply. "And I should prefer that you would not make your voice quite so loud in this house, which I happen to own. Your aunt may have told you—" though I think it would have been very unwise in her if she did, and not very considerate of me—she may have told you that we discussed some topic as I have mentioned, and possibly that would have been true. If I talked it over with her, you may be sure I spoke in the most charitable spirit, and without sharing in other people's disposition to put an evil interpretation on what may be nothing more than unimportant conversation."

Doctor Tells How to Detect Harmful Effects of Tobacco

Try These SIMPLE TESTS

New York: Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital, says: "Many men who smoke, chew or snuff incessantly are slowly and seemingly healthily are suffering from progressive organic ailments. Thousands of them would have never been afflicted had it not been for the use of tobacco, and thousands would soon get well if they would only stop the use of tobacco."

The chief harm-forming principle of tobacco is nicotine, a deadly poison which, when absorbed by the system slowly affects the nerves, membranes, tissues and vital organs of the body. The harmful effect of tobacco varies according to circumstances. One will be afflicted with general debility, others with catarrh of the throat, indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, mental confusion, etc. Others may suffer from heart disease, bronchial trouble, hardening of the arteries, tuberculosis, blindness, or even cancer or the common affliction known as tobacco heart. If you use tobacco in any form you can easily detect the harmful effects by making the following simple tests. Read aloud one full page from a book. If in the course of reading your voice becomes muffled, hoarse and indistinct, and you must frequently clear your throat, the chances are that your throat is affected by catarrh and it may be the beginning of more serious trouble. Next, in the morning before taking your usual smoke, walk up three flights of stairs at a regular pace, then stop. If you find that you are out of breath, your heart beat is forced, trembling or irregular, you may be a victim of functional or organic heart trouble. If you feel that you must smoke, chew or snuff to quiet your nerves, you are a slave to the tobacco habit, and are positively poisoning yourself with the deadly drug, nicotine. In either case you have just two alternatives—keep on with the self-poisoning process irrespective of the dangers and suffer the consequences, or give up the habit and escape the dangers. You can overcome the craving and stop the habit in a very short time by using the following inexpensive formula. Go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets. Take one tablet after each meal, and in a comparatively short time you will have no desire for tobacco's craving will have left you. With the nicotine poison out of your system your general health will quickly improve.

When asked about Nicotol tablets, one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit; away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to sell the Nicotol tablets at a special discount to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit. Nicotol tablets are sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by the up-to-date drug store carrying People's Drug Co. and Reliable Drug Co."

Janesville-Manitowoc Game Sunday Will Be Booster Affair

By George McManus.

DRIVE OPENS TO GET ALL FANS ON JOB

SHORE LEAGUE SCHEDULE
August 17—Manitowoc at Janesville.
August 24—Kosciusko at Milwaukee.
August 31—Waupun at Janesville.
September 1—Janesville at Sheboygan.
September 7—Janesville at Manitowoc.
September 14—McCoy's All Stars at Janesville.
September 21—McCoy's All Stars at Janesville.

Sunday will be booster day at the fair grounds when the Lawrence Janes and Manitowoc clash in the second local game in the Lake Shore league. A city-wide ticket selling campaign will be inaugurated tomorrow by Manager J. A. Murphy and his colleagues in an effort to pack the stand Sunday and bring the attendance up to where it belongs. Janesville has been a good baseball town in the past and with a little boosting combined with the fast article of ball displayed in the Lake Shore league, it can be made a real baseball town for all time.

The preboard drive is being staged with the idea of bringing the team out of a financial rut. According to the manager the team has just been paying expenses even with the small guarantees which prevailed before the entrance into the league. Out-of-town games cut in on the resources to a great extent just balancing the receipts on home games.

Every man in the city, whether or not he is a baseball fan, will be asked to contribute this week to buy a ticket to the game Sunday. Manitowoc is being brought here at a heavy expense and unless a large crowd is sent the team may find itself in a financial hole.

A new score-board will be installed, the grass in the outfield will be cut, and the grandstand will be thoroughly cleaned before Sunday's game. Manager Murphy announces, "It is possible that the band will be hired for the occasion, but fans who saw last Sunday's game do not demand this—they are perfectly content with watching a game."

The Manitowocs are in second place in the league while the Janes are a game and a half behind, in third place. The northerners are considered just about the fastest aggregation in the league. A Janesville victory Sunday will put the team only a half-game back of second place.

Manager Murphy returned from Milwaukee last night. His right hand man, Herman Kueck, who accompanied him on his trip left him yesterday to go to New York City, probably to see about getting Janesville into the National league.

TO MEET DEMPSEY IN U. S. OR IN LONDON

London.—Bernard Mortimer, manager of Joe Beckett, declares that the British heavyweight is ready to meet Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, in England or America, at any time after his match with Carpenter, the French slugger, here next month.

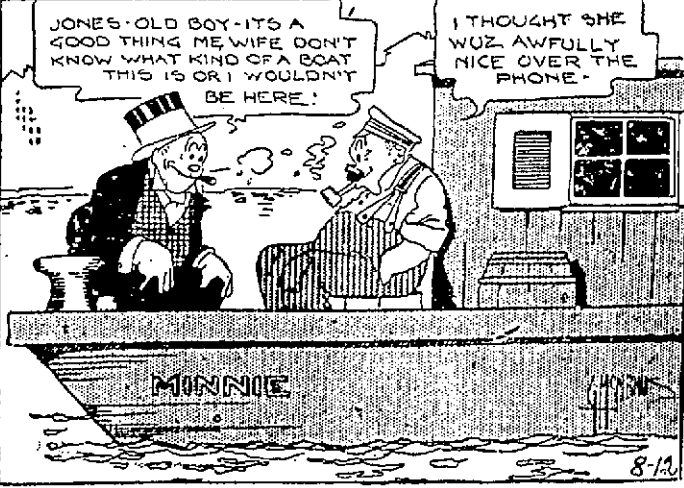

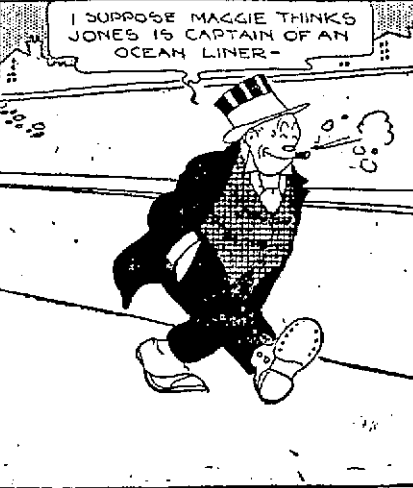

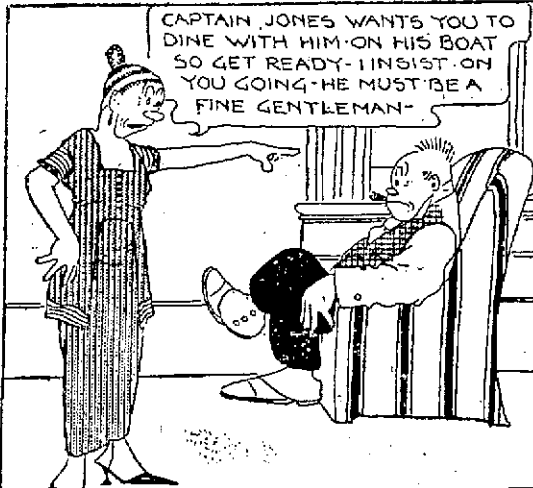

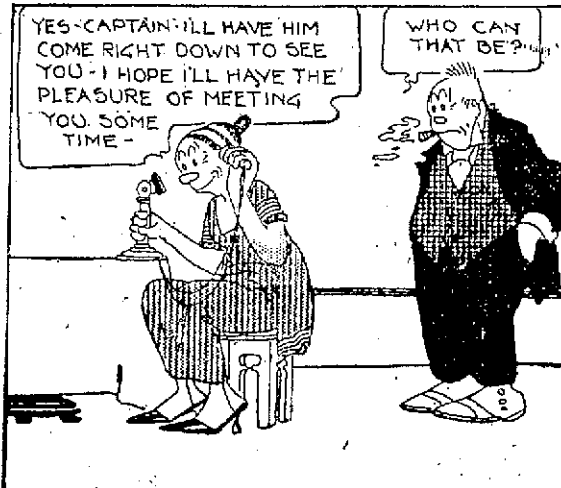

Mortimer declares that he prefers to have the bout staged in England because the fighters could go a longer distance than in any of the big cities of America. Beckett, however, is anxious to make a try for the belt and is not opposed to fighting Dempsey anywhere in the United States.

FOR SUNDAY SPORTS.

Boston.—The battle to secure Sunday sports for Massachusetts, which met with temporary defeat in the legislature, will be carried on under the initiative and referendum. Francis J. Flinn, president of the Democratic club, has filed a petition signed by 14 members of the house for the purpose of securing legislation under the initiative and referendum law permitting baseball, golf and tennis.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Cravath To Make Good Says Former Chief of Phillies

"Gavvy" Cravath will make good as manager of the Philadelphia National league club, if he is not interfered with, according to Pat Moran, of the Cincinnati Reds, who formerly guided the destiny of the Phils. Moran is not usually given to boosting the stock of managers of rival clubs, but on the occasion of Cravath's elevation to the management of the Quakers, when Jack Combs stepped down and out the Redlegs boss did unbosom himself of a few facts.

"There is a popular belief in Philadelphia," said Moran, "that Cravath does not know baseball, but take my tip it is without foundation and I think I ought to know. Cravath is a deep student of the game and a high class ball player, and if they let 'Gavvy' alone he will bring the Phils out of the woods. He is not as spectacular a player as some, but he is a hard and sincere worker. He is a prince of a fellow and will be easy to get along with if the players do their work. He is not so easy as to permit loafing or slipshod work because he loves to win ball games."

This grand sum-up of Cravath should be music to the ears of Philadelphia fans, and should cause them to reflect long enough to give the hard hitting outfielder a free and unencumbered chance to show what he can do in a managerial berth.

It is not the easiest thing in the world to revamp a worn out ball club when an expert is at the helm, and in this case it must be borne in mind that Cravath is an experienced manager. Moran's words would indicate that Cravath's greatest difficulty will come from within the club, and if this is true the Cincinnati pilot's words should be taken seriously by the stockholders of the Phil organization, lest they find themselves backing another losing proposition in 1920. It is too late to expect much for this year, but what is done now will have much bearing on the quality of the club in 1920. Moran's statements are charitable and certainly to the point.

KNOW LEO MCKERNAN?

Houghton, Mich.—Did you ever hear of Leo McKernan? No? That's funny. He is and has been Jack Dempsey's manager for some time. Leo McKernan is "Jack" Kearns. His uncle, Phil Knauf of Houghton, president of the Copper County Baseball League, says so and he ought to know. He is "Jack Kearns" uncle. He says Leo liked the monicker and decided to use it.

PREDICT NEW RECORD WILL BE ESTABLISHED AT ELGIN ROAD RACE

Elgin, Aug. 13.—When official practice starts over the eight and one quarter mile Elgin road race course next Wednesday, pilots will be able to hit the road at a faster pace than ever before in the history of automobile road racing.

Not only has the speed of all cars entered been increased materially since the races were last staged over the Elgin track, but the course itself is miles faster than for any of the previous events.

With this in view it is expected that 25 of the fastest cars in the world will take the best drivers in the game, will face the starter a week from Saturday, August 23, in competition for the Cobe cup and $8,000 in cash prizes.

During the official practice trials, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week the road will be closed to the public between 11 and 12 o'clock each day.

Waldo Stine, selected by Barney Oldfield to pilot the famous "Golden Egg," and Joe Thomas, who will drive a Mercer special, have opened their camps in Elgin. A dozen more cars piloted by their way here. The first arrivals have been spending their time "touring" the course and getting a line on the real speedy places. It will not be until early next week that they will begin to make up and see just what the course is good for.

An Elgin boy will act as mechanic for Stine, the "Golden Egg" pilot. He is Joseph Chessman, 21 year old veteran of the world war and former assistant in the Sunbeam camp here. The London Lloyd's have been secured to insure the public against accidents. Race promoters have taken out $100,000 in policies for the spectators.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, American air ace, hero of many automobile races before he entered the U. S. aviation service, has been officially named honorary referee. Strong effort was made to get him to pilot a car but he insisted that he was out of the game for good.

With every mail bringing in official entries or requests for application blanks it is expected that before the lists close at midnight, August 16, at least 25 cars will be entered for the one road racing contest of note this season.

New York.—Eating walrus meat while in the Arctic with Dr. Cook wore Sven Loveland's teeth down smooth and caused him to be rejected recruiting headquarters here, although he was otherwise in fine physical shape.

When the recruiting sergeant noticed the worn down teeth he asked: "What did that eating gum drops with Dr. Cook?"

"No," replied Sven. "Eating walrus meat and bones. That gumdrop stuff is all bunk."

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE.

Alex McLean, veteran cycle rider and later promoter and manager of crack boxers, has just returned from Europe, where he has been working for the Knights of Columbus since last November. The first three months he spent in Paris, but he was shifted to Germany in January and he remained there at Coblenz until he left for home. With McLean arrived Judge Martin Duffy of Pittsfield, Pa., and Bill Coughlin, the famous old Detroit captain and third baseman.

While he was with the army of occupation McLean supervised the running of sixty-three shows in four months, probably the greatest feat in the annals of the establishment. Events were conducted by the Knights of Columbus for the third army corps in six different places—Trier, West Trier, Esch, Luxembourg, Wittlich, Andernach and Coblenz.

Most of the matches were made by long distance phone, there being a distance of two hundred miles between the clubs farthest east and west. A record of the name, weight, etc., of every boxer in each division was kept, so in this way it was comparatively easy to tell how to match them up.

Among other accomplishments of McLean there is the establishment of a school of umpires, with directors in four different sections, who taught the doughboys who liked that sort of work how to umpire. Pete Noonan, the old Athletic catcher, Bill Coughlin, the Detroit star, Jack Kerin, the former American league umpire, and Tammy Dowd, the old National league star, were those who held night school sessions to show the candidates how to call balls and strikes and interpret the rules.

It was necessary to have a large number of umpires because of the great rivalry in baseball. Each company had one or more teams and when they played it was for money and blood.

Arthur Chambers, who fought for the lightweight championship back in 1917 and who also earned distinction as one of those who helped to draw up the Marquis of Queensberry rules, under which glove contests are now conducted, is still living in Philadelphia. Chambers was a close friend of the British sportsman, who, when he conceived a plan for eliminating many of the objectionable features of the game as it was conducted under London prize ring rules, realized the value of the boxer's practical knowledge and called on him for assistance in drafting the new code. Chambers is still a "rugged" citizen, though he tips the beam at 200 pounds today.

Why Brunswick Tires Win Preference

There are two main reasons—one, the name itself, which certifies superfine value—the other, that time tells the same story.

Thus reputation and performance unite in giving you all you expect—and more.

Yet Brunswicks cost no more than like-type tires. Many motorists would pay more readily, but the Brunswick idea is to GIVE the utmost, rather than to GET the utmost. And this has been true since 1845. You can appreciate what Brunswick Standards mean by trying ONE Brunswick Tire. It will be a revelation. You'll agree that you could not buy a better, regardless of price.

And, like other motorists, you'll decide to have ALL Brunswicks. Then you'll know supreme satisfaction from your tires—longer life, minimum trouble, lower cost.

Europe Not Ruined by the War, Will Revive Soon, Says Crosby

Washington.—That Europe has not been wrecked and ruined by the war, but on the other hand, is in a sound economic condition, is the belief of Oscar T. Crosby, a resident in Europe from 1917 to 1919 and president of the interallied council on war purchases and finance and assistant secretary of the United States treasury during the war period.

It is Mr. Crosby's mature conviction that peace finds the world with: (1) A larger production of food (including agriculture) than it had in 1914, and probably having a value greater than the losses mentioned below.

(2) A supply of labor possibly more efficient than and almost as numerous as it had in 1914.

(3) Resources in raw materials sufficient for the present needs of the race.

(4) No considerable losses, excepting merchant ships destroyed, the wear and tear on railroads, and the devastation wrought in battle areas. "Europe has not been crushed by the war, and her outlook is not a desolate one," Mr. Crosby declared in the course of a recent interview. "When a continent or a country is ruined, you do not have to call witnesses to prove it. The facts are then too clear to admit dispute. The great war has been paid for in full. What is left is ours to do with as we please. In war or in peace, the world taken as a whole pays its bills in full every night it goes to bed, and it must continue to do so until it establishes communication with the world as a whole. It is not green cheese on credit, and it is not green cheese on credit."

"Mountains of metal and other materials have been shot away in the war, it is true, but they were dug up and prepared for that very purpose. Shooting them away has impaired what may be called our undeveloped plant account"—chipped something off the far

FOOTVILLE

Footville, Aug. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Poole, Chicago, are visiting the Bonis relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Owen left Friday for Tomah to visit an aunt, Mrs. Burr Robbins. They are making the trip by auto and expect to be gone several weeks.

Foster Palmer and family go to Monroe today to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Berryman.

Mrs. Otto Nehmer came out from Janesville today for a short stay at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gooch.

Michael Mulachy has sold his farm west of town to Albert Bratzke.

F. J. Trevorrow, wife and son, Owen, left here last evening for the 20th in Crown Point, Ind. They go by auto.

Many, no doubt, will remember the Misses Grace and Mildred Crump who resided here a number of years ago. Mr. Crump being station agent at that time. Their homes are now in Madison and they motored from that city to this place Sunday. The latter, now a widow, and the former with her husband and two children, were renewing old acquaintances in and about town.

John Langdon this morning began work on what will be the new home of Dr. Harvey.

Mrs. Emma Langdon reached town last evening.

Fred Beach, an old Footville boy, reached town Monday noon after an absence of 28 years. Mr. Beach, when a boy, resided with his parents on the farm now owned by Will Bratzke northwest of town, and during all the years of his long absence, has felt a longing to visit his old home and the scene of his boyhood. Mr. Beach now holds a position in Minneapolis and being granted a vacation, the greater part of which has been spent with relatives near Warren, Ill., he decided to visit his old home, and expecting to find relatives or even old acquaintances, and was surprised to find that his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards and many old friends and schoolmates still resided in this vicinity and gave him a cordial welcome. He will leave town today, but plans to return at some future time for a more extended visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Berryman and daughter, Miss Maude, are in Monroe today to attend the funeral of Mr. Berryman's brother.

Miles Clark has a new auto truck. Will Canary spent Sunday at his home here, and all will be glad to know that he has been released from the navy, after so long waiting. Mr. Canary will not return at once, as he now holds a position and no doubt will remain where he is for some time.

forward as soon as the war began, and not only kept pace but was far ahead when the armistice was signed. During the four years of fighting the United States took care of itself as usual, equipped and supplied its own vast armies, and contributed to others $15,000,000,000 worth of materials, most of which would not have been prepared at all, during that time, had the war not required it. All this without straining or depleting us in any way.

On the contrary, it is a latent human force which had been neglected and presented to us, at the conclusion of war, with an industrial and agricultural equipment far superior to the one we possessed before.

"In Europe the war's effect upon real wealth and production has not been different in character. Each of the principal belligerent nations has vastly increased its mechanical capacity for production. England's biggest loss is that of merchant ships, while her power to replace those ships is increased. The loss will be soon more than made good. Her railroads, like those of every other country, have suffered a lot of wear and tear, but the larger part of a railroad's value is its roadbed, and all roadbeds are substantially intact. England's soil and mineral deposits have not been seriously depleted by the war, while her skill in exploiting them has been increased. She is embarrassed by unusual labor demands, but wide publicity of discussion is slowly revealing the necessary limits of change in former conditions.

"The case of France is much the same. There is an ugly streak of severe devastation running from Flanders to Verdun. Mines have been flooded, factories wrecked and homes ruined.

PORTER

Porter, Aug. 12.—The E. M. Nalan family is entertaining Mr. Nalan's brother, Charles, wife and daughter of Hampton, Iowa.

Thomas Ford of Rubicon, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. D. Casey, and other relatives.

Miss V. M. Boss is spending the week with Chicago relatives. Her cousin, Miss Ruth McCarthy, Janesville, accompanied her.

Miss Haldine Becker, of the town of Fulton is staying a few weeks at the home of A. Ford. Mrs. Ford has been sick but is now better.

The hum of the threshing machine can be heard almost everywhere now. A small yield is reported.

Mrs. Frank Boss was the guest of her friend, Mrs. G. W. Nichols, Edgerton, Sunday afternoon. She reported Mrs. Nichols greatly improved.

Most of the tobacco here will be topped this week. It is a bumper crop.

Mrs. Nell Johnson will entertain the Help-a-bit club Aug. 21 instead of Aug. 14, as was announced last week.

Robert Earle has disposed of his farm here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cox and Mrs. Fred Fessenden and daughter spent Sunday in Evansville.

Miss Marie Fox has returned from Mercy hospital, where she underwent a minor operation last week.

Miss Ruth McCarthy, Janesville, spent last week with relatives here.

Melvin McCarthy, Janesville, was a pleasant caller at Frank Boss' Thursday.

Frank Burdick, Edgerton, is painting and decorating the interior of the Eagle school house.

New cement sidewalks have just been completed on the J. M. Sweeney and C. Cox farms.

CORN CROP STILL PROMISES TO BEAT PREVIOUS RECORDS

In spite of the extreme dry weather which prevailed through the greater part of Wisconsin during July the 1919 corn crop still promises to surpass previous years' records, according to the August report of Joseph A. Becker of the Wisconsin crop reporting service. A decline in condition during July from 95 percent of normal to 92 caused a reduction in forecast of over 5,000,000 bushels. The 10-year average condition August 1 is 87. The forecasted production from August 1 conditions is 70,325,000 bushels, compared with the July forecast of 75,676,000 bushels, with a production of 63,535,000 bushels in 1918 and a 5-year average (1914-1918) of 56,110,000 bushels.

For the United States, the forecast of production of corn declined from 2,315 million bushels July 1 to 2,338 million bushels August 1. In 1918 the production was 2,533 million bushels, while the 5-year average is 2,777 million bushels.

The drought during July and insects materially damaged potatoes, particularly early varieties. The condition August 1 is given at 72 percent of normal, compared with 92 July 1. The forecasted production from August 1 conditions is 26,010,000 bushels, compared with the July 1 forecast of 31,108,000, with the 1918 production of 29,100,000 and a 5-year average of 29,058,000 bushels.

For the United States, the estimated production for 1918 is 357 million bushels, compared with July 1 forecast of 391 million, 400 million bushels produced in 1918 and a 5-year average of 380 million.

The condition of tobacco August 1 was 85 percent of normal, compared with 97 July 1 and a 10-year average of 84. The estimated production is 60,522,000 pounds, compared with 65,130,000 pounds produced in 1918 and a 5-year average of 61,226,000 pounds.

The estimated production for the United States was 1,335 million pounds, compared with 1,240 million pounds produced in 1918 and a 5-year average of 1,168 million pounds.

The preliminary estimate of acreage planted to buckwheat in the state this year is 34,000 acres, 56 percent of 1918, when 40,000 acres were harvested. The 5-year average acreage is 23,000 acres. The August 1 condition is placed at 55 percent of normal, compared with a 10-year average of 56. This gives promise of a harvest of 526,000 bushels, compared with the 1918 production of 436,000 bushels and a 5-year average of 438,000 bushels.

For the United States, the preliminary estimate of 1919 production is 163 million bushels, compared with 171 million produced in 1918, and a 5-year average of 154 million bushels.

In Rock county the condition of corn August 1 was 86 percent of normal, compared with 100 percent July 1; of potatoes 54 percent, compared with 93 percent on July 1.

BIG EMIGRATION FUND.

London.—It is probable a large part of the $12,500,000 balance on the Prince of Wales' fund will be used in assisting ex-service men to emigrate. The question is now under consideration. The only opposition comes from women who fear the fact that there are 1,500,000 more women in England than men.

Feeding the Millions

INCREASING the food supply of the world is the most vital problem which man must solve. The burden of this solution rests heavily upon the shoulders of the farmers of America.

The service rendered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in producing fuel and lubricants for the economical and efficient operation of farm machinery has made it possible for the farmer to cultivate a greater acreage, produce larger crops, and get them to market at least expense.

By maintaining its comprehensive system of distribution, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) makes it possible for the farmer to get his requirements of petroleum products easily, regularly and quickly.

By virtue of this complete service on the part of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), he may, literally, "make hay while the sun shines."

He is independent of the health or endurance of horses. He can plow, cultivate or harvest when these tasks should be done. He can have a complete cycle of activity, operating even by shifts, if necessary. He can plan his operations on a definite schedule to produce a steady, constant supply of farm products for you and your family.

Thus is illustrated how you benefit by the service rendered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to the farmer. These are benefits accruing to the world at large which accentuate the usefulness of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as a public servant, and emphasize how completely it discharges its obligation as such.

BADGER FARMERS BUYING LIME ON COOPERATIVE PLAN

Madison, Aug. 13.—Farmers in various communities in Buffalo, Dane, Grant, Iowa and St. Croix counties are buying lime co-operatively. Individual farmers scattered all over the state are looking ahead. They are securing lime for use this fall.

"Since approximately three-fourths of the soils in the state are acid," says W. W. Weir of the College of Agriculture, "Wisconsin farmers are destined to become great consumers of lime. Lining has passed the experimental stage. It is definitely known now that many farmers should secure lime in carloads rather than by the ton."

Liming improves the acid soil by adding available calcium to meet the demands of crops, particularly of clover and alfalfa.

Neutralizing acidity and certain poisonous substances creating an environment more favorable to growth, to the activity of helpful bacteria and the growth of tender roots.

Making plant food more available.

Giving greater returns from commercial fertilizers.

Improving the structure of the soil if used continually.

Helping control many weeds.

According to Mr. Weir, co-operative liming is satisfactory in isolated communities where the cost of the lime and the freight makes liming rather expensive and in localities where there are good limestone outcrops.

"Liming seems to be a drudgery," declares Mr. Weir, "when the lime is hauled to the field and put in piles at one end and then spread over the field with a lime spreader. Of course, putting on a load or two with a wagon and shovel is not difficult, but often the Wisconsin farmer must think of adding much larger quantities of lime."

For the first application to benefit special crops like alfalfa, Mr. Weir advises the use of finely divided material, and for quick results with any crop he urges the finely divided limestone, lump lime, hydrated lime or finely divided air slaked lime, while the coarser material may be used for later applications.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Aug. 13, 1879.—Dr. Lord's son of Edgerton, was in the city today.

The fuel man are busy filling orders for supplies for winter.

Frank S. Lawrence and wife have returned from Lake Geneva, after a week's outing there.

E. S. Barrows and family, Evansville, have been spending a few days in this city. They returned home today.

The billboards are being covered with show posters for Wallace shows, which are scheduled to be given here on the 19th and 20th.

Rev. A. L. Royce will return home from his vacation this week and there will be the usual services at the Christ church next Sunday.

The funeral services for Mrs. James Cleland will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence of her son-in-law, John Gowdy.

"Soils become acid," says Mr. Weir, "when they lose carbonate of lime and other substances of similar chemical nature. In upland soils the deficiency is brought about by leaching and cropping. Leaching is the greater factor."

"During the natural process of soil formation from rocks, more or less of the carbonate of lime is formed and accumulated in the soil. But in a humid climate the rain which falls through it dissolves the carbonate of lime and carries it away. This process has been going on for ages."

Ford-Tribune Libel Suit Arguments Closed

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Mount Clemens, Mich., Tuesday, Aug. 12.—Arguments in the $1,000,000 suit of Henry Ford against the Chicago Daily Tribune closed today with the summing up addresses of Elliott G. Stevenson, senior counsel for the Tribune, and Alfred Lucking, for Mr. Ford. Judge Tucker said he intended to excuse the jury and counsel tomorrow while he devoted himself to preparing his instructions. Thursday morning, he said, he expected to charge the jury and send it to its deliberations.
